

The Art, Music & Recreation Center of the San Francisco Public Library Presents:

THE GREAT AMERICAN FOLKSONG REVIVAL

Tim Holt revisits the golden age of folk music of the 1950s and 1960s.

It began with a search for authentic American folk music back in the 1920s. Recordings of the songs of Appalachia and other roots music were collected and stored at the Archive of the American Folk Song at the Library of Congress and later recorded and sung by The Weavers, The Kingston Trio, and Peter, Paul, & Mary. In this one-hour program Join with Mr. Holt on songs that include "Goodnight Irene," "If I Had A Hammer," "We Shall Overcome," "Hard And It's Hard," "500 Miles," "Shady Grove," and "This Land." Can you say "hootenanny"?
